

BOXED IN

Making Identities Safe for Democracy

DERRICK DARBY

EDUARDO J MARTINEZ

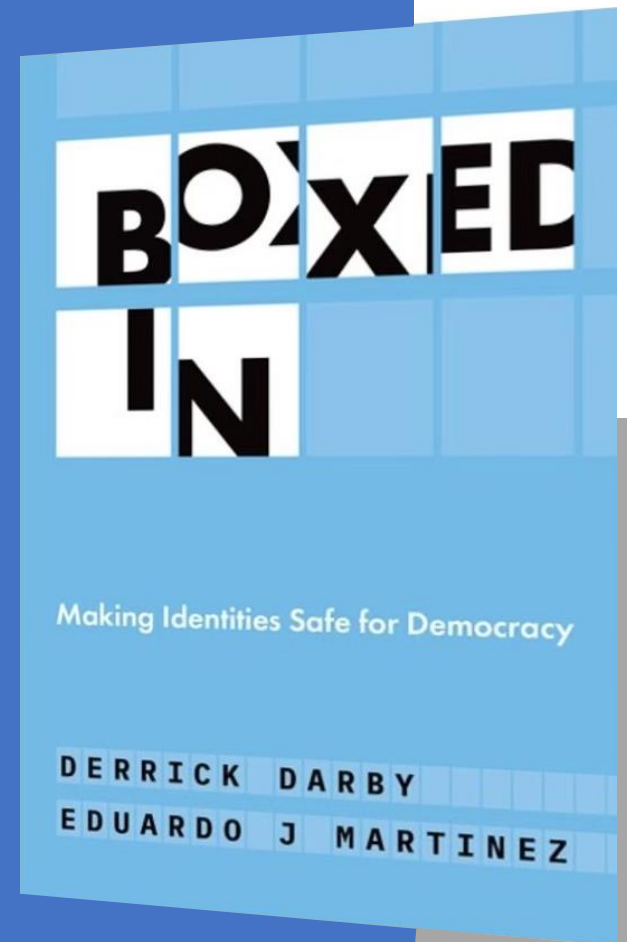

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

“

This beautifully written and eloquent book should be read by any of us concerned with the many crises facing humanity today...This tour de force is a must read for academics and citizens alike.”

- Sarah A. Soule

Morgride Professor of Organizational Behavior, Stanford University

“

Our identities can become too small, either for ourselves or for the coalition we are in. We feel ‘boxed in.’ Darby and Martinez deploy a wealth of interesting examples to show us how to use ‘collective self-authorship’ to escape entrapment.”

- Christopher H. Achen
Professor of Politics Emeritus, Princeton University

“

This brilliantly original book combines philosophical and cultural analysis with detailed case studies to provide a practical guide to managing our heterogeneous identities, as we seek to manage our lives — at local, national, and international scales — together.”

- Kwame Anthony Appiah
Author of The Lies That Bind: Rethinking Identity

Derrick Darby PhD

is Henry Rutgers Distinguished Professor of Philosophy at Rutgers University. He is a member of the American Academy of Arts & Sciences. He discovered his passion for philosophy growing up in the Queensbridge public housing projects in NYC. He writes about rights, race, inequality, and democracy.

For more details, go to: derrickdarby.com

Eduardo J. Martinez PhD

is an Assistant Professor of Philosophy at the University of Cincinnati. His research is in democratic theory and focuses on institutions and practices such as administrative agencies, civic education, representation, and political partisanship.

For more details, go to: eduardojmartinez.com

